WHY HAWK'S STERLION™ COATINGS?

Silver as antimicrobial protection

Silver is a natural compound found in the earth's crust. Silver prevents the growth of unwanted microorganisms such as mold, mildew, fungus and bacteria by releasing ions on demand.

Hawk's Sterlion Antimicrobial Coatings

Hawk's antimicrobial coatings contain silver ion technology and have three modes of action:

- Silver ions bind to the cell wall stopping growth.
- Silver ions interrupt enzyme production stopping the cell producing energy.
- Silver ions interrupt the cell DNA stopping replication.

Long lasting protection

The industry's first antimicrobial coatings with added Siltrac™ technology which confirms the presence of the silver ion technology in the coating. Antimicrobial protection will last the lifetime of the coating.

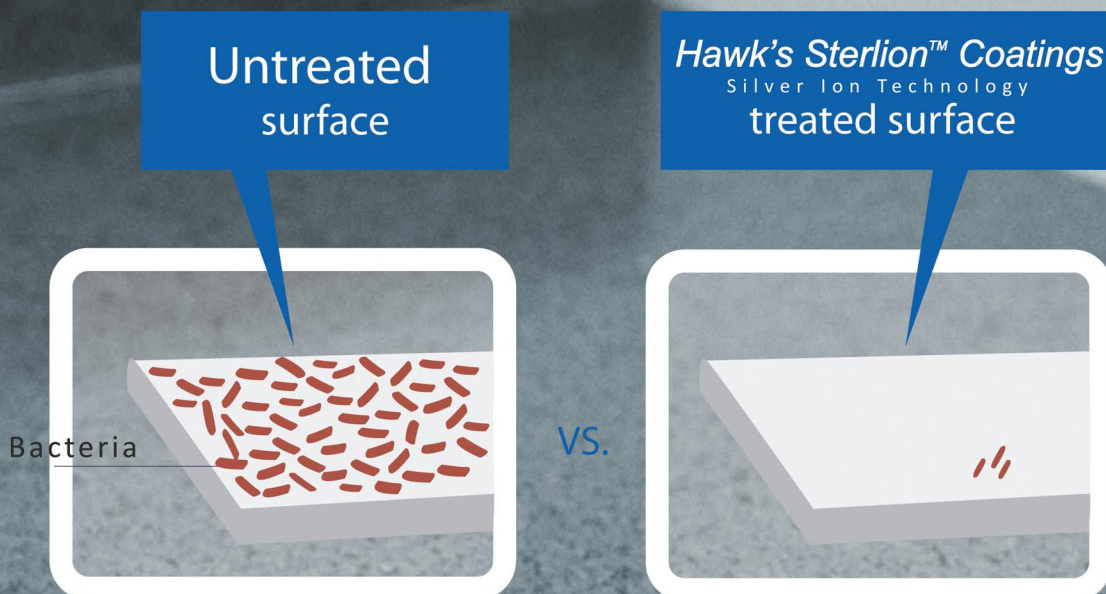

Siltrac technology

Use Hawk's custom laser indicator with Siltrac technology to detect and confirm the presence of the Sterlion antimicrobial coating. The green light confirms your coating is protected by Sterlion.
